

Dear Year 6 Students,

I am writing a letter to help you with some of your worries because as you are going to be the new Year 7, you might need some help. Going from primary school to secondary school is a big change and it could be challenging for many people.

Before I started school, I was worried about making friends, so I hung out with my cousins. Then I saw one of my best friends and he was with a new friend, so I met him and now all of us hang out.

When I started, it was easy to find my classes because if I got lost, I would just ask staff who are there to help me. It even has signs around the school to say where the departments are.

Another positive thing about this school is the behaviour is really good because when I was in Year 7 there was no bullying or fighting happening around the school.

If none of this helps you, then ask your teacher, because they will probably give you some really good pieces of advice.

Thank you for reading my letter, hopefully it helps you have a great day.

Bye!

Sami
